My Dear Wife

The improvement in my wounds alluded to in previous letters is signalized to day by attaining real strength. The floating and doubtful condition becomes rather one that is positive. I have touched bottom and now shall begin to rebuild. Wounds commenced healing yesterday or day before all very favorable Doc Perry is not here now. I am going to change my room to day for better convenience, I feel very much solicitous about the effect of the first telegram on you. It would be a great relief if I assured that you were well. My appetite is very good I have no fever to mention and when time enough has passed to restore my strength I shall at once prepare to come home. Love to all and ever so much to you, Your Husband
