Camp near Sandy Hook
Oct. 4th 1862

My Dear Wife -

After a week of hurry & vexing bustle & privations we have a peaceful Saturday night & light hearts - I wrote you Monday morning from Camp Chase, also from Frederick Junction Tuesday afternoon - Don't remember whether I wrote you Wednesday - Recollect writing to Joseph & John sometime during the week & also making up the company's report to the Soldiers Association or whatever it is called which I sent off without reviewing, being ordered to march before time was afforded. After we got under way I stopped in the main street of Frederick scratched a word or two on the last page & sent it to your address - Wish you would notify me of the letters rec. especially the report, above mentioned if it comes to its destination - We left Frederick, that is our camp at noon without dinner but did not get away from the place until 7 P.M. - Reached Sandy Hook at 12 ½, unloaded & after fumbling (Pg. 2) around for an hour the officers left us to ourselves without orders & we curled up by the roadside & fences & slept till morning - When morning came we were marched back ½ mile that had been traveled the previous night on to another road & halted in an orchard about 10 A.M. Our tents came along in about 2 hours & we have spent the time since then in cleaning off the ground, pitching tents xc, xc. - We officers have the same tents as at Camp Chase - The men have shelters made of their rubber blankets - I send you a rough draft of them - They take two crutches & a pole lying in them for a center over this two rubbers are stretched for the roofs & then two others makes the sides - The ends are left open - & if they prefer bushes are set up or anything to stop the wind - These do well enough in dry weather, but when it rains the dog kennel style would be preferable - that is two blankets forming merely the roofs - Two men can get under these very (Pg. 3) comfortably - The larger ones hold four - Our camp is in a fine apple & peach orchard close by a house & barn - The fruit however was all appropriated by our predecessor, the field having been used in the same way a great many times since the war broke out both by Union & rebel regts. Other regts. lie all around us above & below, right & left, far & near - We are also just at the base of what is call Maryland Heights on the east - Harpers Ferry lies the other side of them a little to the south west - Of course we look in that direction upon nothing but a high wooded range - somewhat resembling the one you see from S. Shepards - Stand at the foot of that range & it appears about the same height as this - We can see the fort & look out station with its signal flag upon the summit. Men are also engaged cutting down trees in order to give the guns range in every direction – This morning we could see the axis gleam in the sunshine & the trees fell ever second – During Jackson's late raid a fight occurred right up there (Pg. 4) in which the rebels are said to have lost 130 to our 3 – But the rebels got possession, our men falling back in the night to a fort further down which was also given up – I intend to go up there the first opportunity if we stay here long enough – Our rules are much stricter now & it is not prudent for officers or men to get very far from camp – we are subject to call at any hour & the Col. expects everyone to be ready at a moments notice – We left S. M. Bailey & J. R. Hitchcock behind on duty at Camp Chase – Richardson also & the two cooks staid to pick up things – They followed on across the country to Frederick & from there to this place arriving about noon today – We were glad enough to see them & they as glad to find us – Charley Clark had the good fortune to receive his box just before leaving W. & he brought it along – He also had the mail up to Tuesday night when he left that place – You may believe our joy was great over the letters & the box – The latter I never expected to receive – Yours of last Sabbath evening, Fathers, Idas & Franks all at once were indeed four fold blessings – But the sight of those pears & apples & grapes was worth a whole week of trouble & hardship – After I taken out the Porters & Louise's & grapes, lo! There was one delicious Seckel – I came near not finding it done up so snugly in a nest of cotton – I little expected to see any pears from home when leaving, certainly not to taste them way down here at Harpers (Pg. 5) Ferry – I did not suppose the Porter would be so good an apple – The box of lint & bandages from the good ladies of 10th District is all right – James was on hand & the taste I got of Mrs. Atwater snaps will lead me to cultivate greater familiarity with her pantry when we are neighbors again – It is a little singular that no other boxes came – Several were looking for such & they all felt envious of our good fortune or rather complained because the fickle dame had frowned upon them – I think you had better not try to send anything more until we are certain of staying somewhere for a while – If we go on from here probably our trunks will not be allowed to follow us – They have come along thus far all right – I have made no arrangements for carrying anything without a trunk – Don't know what to do – If sure that we were to be put campaigning over in Va. the less I had along the better – A single change of clothes & writing materials would compose my luggage – You speak of my letters having a sad tone – That is not the way I feel at all – Never was more easy – The troubles we have (Pg. 6) here seem to slip off from me like drops of rain from a ducks back – I feel sometimes like blowing up the Col., in fact he deserves it about once a day – Nothing yet has worried me an hour – Don't think my weight has altered since enlisting – My appetite is first best all the while; no looseness in the bowels, in fact perfectly regular strong, cheerful & expect to remain so – A good many officers & men in the regt. complain of diarrhea, dysentery & other troubles – They sip Dr. True, tincture of ginger, try brandy – pills & other nostrums without number – I have not touched any medicine or liquor & but for one days derangement at Arlington, which was no more than I have often had at home, & the last boil, which is now healing up, you would not know that I had changed from my usual health & spirits – Judging by what I have thus far seen I shall go right along & outstrip a great many of those who looked so strong & healthy – There is a vast difference in the toughness of men – I am surprised (Pg. 7) to see how easily some are used up – They seemed to be made of pith & the moment a strain comes they go all to pieces – Three miles march with overcoat & blanket, haversack & gun will lay out great strapping six footers weighing 150 or more, while others puny to look at come right along without any backwardness – Some of our company are puny enough but you would not suspect them at home – By the way, several who fell out on our march from Capitol Hill were indignant today after reading the letters from home – It seems some unkind friend wrote home mentioning names – That was not fair – The boys did as well as they could & after resting a little came up – I hope you will be cautious if I say anything of anyone remember it is confidential so far as it might of reported be unfavorable – I know you are discreet & hope this caution will not be construed as in the least fault finding – From what I hear there must be some most absurd stories set afloat with you in Southington – Don't get alarmed (Pg. 8) at the many silly things which some seem to delight in. I rather think a few of our men are given to big stories & black ones – It won't do to believe all that is written from camp – I am often amused at some of the rumors that run through camp – Jackson has been captured a hundred times – The rebels are near at hand – a battle so & so until I don't pay any attention to them. The press & independence are at hand – I read Franks letter with much pleasure, it being his first – Hope he will write me every week – Willie must be careful about going down stairs – Ida too will write often & give all the news she can of home & the children – Was glad to hear from father – Will try to send him another soon – But to write to all my friends keeps me busy – I don't see why some of them can't write me first - I believe I sent something to Miles this week – On the whole, looking back to last Monday evening over the marches, rides, watchings & peculiar experiences we have had besides letters & report, it seems as though the week had been pretty much filled up – It is 11 o'clock & Richardson just asks if I am going to set up till morning – Good night – I shall sleep like a tot without fear of anxiety – Hope you will be able to do the same –

As ever
A. Upson
